Each year since 1990, the Legal Aid Society has presented the Servant of Justice Award to individuals and organizations who have demonstrated faithful dedication and remarkable achievement in ensuring that all persons have equal and meaningful access to justice.

Tonight’s honorees and the past recipients have made the struggle for equal justice part of their personal and professional identities. They have demonstrated on a daily basis their commitment to and concern for the community of which they are a part. Please join us in expressing our gratitude for their life-long commitment to community service.
Vernon E. Jordan, Jr. started his career as a lawyer at the height of the civil rights movement. After graduating from Howard Law School in 1960, he joined the legal team that desegregated the University of Georgia. He went on to leadership positions in many of the key civil rights and racial justice organizations. He served as President and Chief Executive Officer of the National Urban League, Inc.; Executive Director of the United Negro College Fund, Inc.; Director of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council; Attorney-Consultant, U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity; Assistant to the Executive Director of the Southern Regional Council; and Georgia Field Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He has been a leader in creating diversity throughout the corporate world and, significantly, has pushed for greater opportunities for minorities in the legal profession. Mr. Jordan is a Senior Managing Director of Lazard Frères & Co. LLC in New York. He works with a diverse group of clients across a broad range of industries. Prior to joining Lazard, Mr. Jordan was a Senior Executive Partner with the law firm of Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld LLP, where he remains Senior Counsel.

Mr. Jordan’s presidential appointments include: the President’s Advisory Committee for the Points of Light Initiative Foundation; the Secretary of State’s Advisory Committee on South Africa; the Advisory Council on Social Security; the Presidential Clemency Board; the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission; the National Advisory Committee on Selective Service; and the Council of the White House Conference “To Fulfill These Rights.” In 1992, Mr. Jordan served as the Chairman of the Clinton Presidential Transition Team.

Mr. Jordan is a graduate of DePauw University and the Howard University Law School. He holds honorary degrees from more than 60 colleges and universities in America. He is a member of the Bars of Arkansas, the District of Columbia, Georgia and the U.S. Supreme Court. He is a member of the American Bar Association, the National Bar Association, the Council on Foreign Relations and The Bilderberg Meetings. Mr. Jordan is the author of Vernon Can Read! A Memoir (Public Affairs, 2001) and Make It Plain, Standing Up and Speaking Out (Public Affairs, 2008).

Florence Wagman Roisman is the William F. Harvey Professor of Law at the Indiana University School of Law - Indianapolis. Most of her career has been devoted to legal services advocacy and teaching, both focused on low-income housing, homelessness, and racial discrimination and segregation. From 1967 to 1970, she worked in the Law Reform Unit of the D.C. Neighborhood Legal Services Project and co-counseled Javins v. First National Realty and Edwards v. Habib, among other cases. Thereafter, with the National Housing Law Project, she co-counseled cases involving the public housing lease and grievance procedures, the impoundment of funds for federal housing programs, and the use of civil forfeiture laws against public housing residents, among other issues. On several occasions, she helped to represent Mitch Snyder and other members of the Community for Creative Non-Violence in their anti-homelessness advocacy. She often has trained legal aid lawyers, in both federal litigation and housing, and spoken at legal services meetings, including two NLADA Litigation and Advocacy Directors’ Conferences. She helped write and edit the federal practice manual for legal aid lawyers. She has taught at the Antioch School of Law and the law schools of Catholic, Georgetown, George Washington, Maryland, Widener, and Yale Universities.

Professor Roisman was the first recipient (in 1989) of the Kutak-Dodds Memorial Prize, the first recipient (in 2004) of the national Equal Justice Works Outstanding Faculty/Staff Award, and the first recipient (in 1994) of the Georgetown University Law Center Equal Justice Foundation Award for Outstanding Faculty Commitment to Public Interest Law. She received the D.C. Bar’s Thurgood Marshall Award in 2000, and was honored by the Alliance for Justice in 1991. She has served on the D.C. Bar’s Board of Governors (1972-78) and the boards of the Washington Legal Clinic for the Homeless, Poverty and Race Research Action Council, Society of American Law Teachers, and national ACLU. She now is on the boards of the ACLU of Indiana and the Inclusive Communities Project (Dallas, TX). She graduated from Harvard Law School cum laude and earned her B.A., with High Honors and Distinction, from the University of Connecticut, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.
Legal Aid’s Partnership Award was created to recognize significant collaborations between Legal Aid and non-legal organizations or individuals that directly increase our ability to serve our clients.

This year we are excited to present the award to Fair Budget Coalition.

The Fair Budget Coalition (FBC) fights for a just and inclusive District of Columbia through advocacy and organizing and through the advancement of budget and public policy initiatives that reflect the interdependency of the District’s community and economic development systems.

Organized in 1994, FBC is a coalition of more than 60 organizations and individuals, including grassroots community groups, human services providers, advocates, faith organizations, and concerned community members. Through FBC, these diverse parties come together to work collaboratively and strategically to advance a public policy agenda that responds compassionately and effectively to the needs of those living in poverty.

FBC was born out of, and embraces still, the idea that human needs must be addressed in a strategic and comprehensive way. FBC strives to ensure that budget makers and policy setters not be allowed to “divide and conquer” or pit one vulnerable population or special need against another. By representing a variety of interests and perspectives, FBC brings this message and the voices of District residents in need into the local public decision-making processes.

One of the foundations of FBC’s work is its annual budget recommendation report. Developed through an intensive community input process, the budget report reviews the Mayor’s proposed budget and puts forth an alternate version of the budget that addresses the human needs of D.C. residents. In addition to this annual undertaking, the Coalition facilitates communication among organizations and the public and coordinates local advocacy strategies. Over the years, FBC has testified before the D.C. Council, Congress and various agencies; has analyzed the budget and prepared budget briefings; and has held numerous trainings and forums to strengthen the advocacy work of local organizations and individuals.

Legal Aid is honored to be a member of FBC and to work side by side with FBC members to advocate on behalf of communities living in poverty in D.C. Among other initiatives, Legal Aid worked closely with FBC last summer to oppose changes to the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program that would have hurt families living in poverty. Every year, FBC is a powerful voice at the City Council focusing on issues of economic justice.
The Klepper Prize was created through the generosity of Martin and Arlene Klepper in order to recognize an attorney early in her or his career who has made a significant volunteer contribution to the Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia.

This evening we present the Prize to an individual who has demonstrated a commitment to the mission of Legal Aid and has given substantial support to Legal Aid during the last several years. He has not only provided direct client services but has been actively engaged on the leadership committee for our annual Generous Associates Campaign, contributing to record-breaking fundraising for this campaign both at his firm and citywide year after year.

Randy Brater is a partner in the commercial and intellectual property litigation groups at Arent Fox LLP. His practice involves litigating matters in both state and federal courts, from preliminary injunctions to motions practice to jury and bench trials as well as arbitrations and mediation. He has experience with trademark and copyright litigation, commercial, real estate and environmental litigation, trade secret and competition law, and health care and civil False Claims Act matters. Mr. Brater also serves as part of the team that services the intellectual property portfolios for a number of media and entertainment clients, providing litigation expertise in trademark, copyright and publicity rights matters.

Mr. Brater is an active participant in firm activities. He is a member of the firm’s Employment Committee that is responsible for the hiring of summer associates, oversight of the firm’s summer program and hiring of new associates.

Mr. Brater has been a volunteer and supporter of Legal Aid since 2002, shortly after he joined his firm. As a new associate, he wanted to find a way to “give back.” Mr. Brater learned that Arent Fox participates in Legal Aid’s Volunteer Intake Program and he was attracted to the opportunity to come to Legal Aid’s office and meet with potential clients. Through the intake program, volunteer lawyers are able to help clients with their legal problems, which often involve critical decisions about their home, children, health care or public benefits. Over the past eight years, Mr. Brater has taken on a leadership role in the program. In addition to volunteering directly with clients, Mr. Brater recruits and organizes his firm colleagues to participate. Moreover, he has provided critical assistance and feedback to improve the training materials for volunteers.

Additionally, Mr. Brater became Arent Fox’s firm coordinator for Legal Aid’s annual Generous Associates fundraising campaign and the following year became a Campaign Co-Chair, helping to organize the campaign citywide. In 2009, after being elected partner at his firm, he was no longer eligible to serve officially as a Campaign Co-Chair, but he remained involved and rallied his fellow partners to support the effort. Mr. Brater’s leadership has contributed to record-breaking fundraising for this campaign both at his firm and citywide year after year. In 2006, Mr. Brater was awarded his firm’s Albert E. Arent Pro Bono Award for his work with Legal Aid.

Mr. Brater is a 1997 graduate of Cornell University, and a 2000 graduate of Vanderbilt University Law School.

At Legal Aid the idea of equal justice is not an abstraction. It is real and it is concrete and it is about matters that are critical to the health, safety and dignity of the clients we serve. Legal Aid staff members have the great honor of doing work that is essential to equal justice for all.

Every year, Legal Aid attorneys provide representation and assistance to, and advocate on behalf of, thousands of individuals and families living in poverty. We have four substantive practice areas: domestic violence and family law, public benefits, housing law, and consumer law.

Recognizing that clients need a continuum of services, in addition to representation, we engage in outreach and education, assist clients to resolve their own disputes with advice and other brief assistance and pursue strategies to make changes in decisional law, agency practice, regulations or statutes.

During 2009, we assisted clients in more than 2,000 matters, including extended representation in nearly 700 cases. Hundreds of other clients attended legal rights education sessions or received a referral to another organization for services.

Housing law: We help tenants avoid eviction or have serious housing conditions corrected. Our housing lawyers also assist public housing tenants to preserve subsidies, fight illegal rent increases and work to prevent displacement by development.

Family law: We ensure safety for victims of domestic violence and their children and work to achieve family stability through child support and custody cases.

Public benefits law: We work to ensure that the necessary “safety net” benefits and services (including health care, food stamps, Supplemental Security Income and Temporary Assistance for Needy Families) are available to all who qualify.

Consumer law: Among other issues we provide much-needed representation to help poor and low-income homeowners avoid foreclosure (which is often precipitated by foreclosure fraud).

Current projects include:

Community Offices: Through the Southeast Neighborhood Access Project and the Court Based Legal Services Project we endeavor to reduce barriers to access by collaborating with other legal or social services providers in locations already frequented by potential clients. Clients can receive services in at least one if not all of our practice areas at each of these locations.

Appellate Advocacy Program: Legal Aid has established a highly-respected program of appellate advocacy. Through this initiative we pursue appellate litigation that will improve the decisional law across the spectrum of our practice areas.

Systemic Advocacy and Reform Projects: The integration of systemic advocacy and reform projects with our individual representation and direct client services is a cornerstone of our work on behalf of persons living in poverty.
Pro Bono Referral Program

Legal Aid’s Pro Bono Referral Program refers cases to attorneys working in private law firms and government agencies. Pro bono attorneys expand Legal Aid’s capacity to help individuals and families who we otherwise would have to turn away because of limited in-house resources. Legal Aid refers cases in the areas of housing law, child custody, child support, public benefits, and consumer law, as well as a limited number of appellate matters. The matters initially are screened by Legal Aid staff prior to referral. For each matter referred, an experienced Legal Aid staff attorney is assigned as a mentor to answer any questions the pro bono attorney may have, provide sample pleadings, discuss relevant case law and strategy, and offer ongoing guidance as the case moves forward.

If you would like more information about pro bono opportunities with Legal Aid, please contact Jodi Feldman, Director of Pro Bono and Intake Programs, by phone at (202) 661-5965 or email at jfeldman@legalaiddc.org.

Support Legal Aid

Legal Aid raises the majority of its budget through private sources including law firms, attorneys, corporations, legal support professionals, and foundations. Although not limited to Washington’s legal community, we depend heavily on its generosity. There are many ways to support Legal Aid’s efforts to make justice real:

- Generous Associates Campaign this summer
- Annual Appeal at the end of the year
- Servant of Justice Awards Dinner on April 28, 2011
- Designate 8140 in the United Way Campaign or 81566 in the Combined Federal Campaign
- Many employers will match the charitable contributions of their employees. Contact your Human Resources Department to learn more.
- Consider adding a bequest to your will that contributes to the sustainable future of Legal Aid. In the alternative, designate Legal Aid as a beneficiary of your life insurance policy or charitable trust.

For more information about these options, please visit our website at www.legalaiddc.org or contact Gregg A. Kelley, Director of Development, by phone at (202) 661-5964 or email at gkelley@legalaiddc.org.
The Legal Aid Society created the Leadership Cabinet in order to recognize those donors each year that support the organization in significant ways. We are proud to recognize our 2010 Leadership Cabinet members as of April 12 for their generous support.

IN MEMORIAM

Michael I. Coe

Michael Coe, an associate at Crowell & Moring LLP, died on January 18, 2010. He was 38.

Throughout his tenure at Crowell & Moring, Michael was committed to giving back to the community through active and consistent participation in the firm’s pro bono program. Many of the matters he handled were landlord tenant matters referred by the Legal Aid Society of the District of Columbia.

Michael was trained as a patent lawyer, and fairly early in his career decided to focus his practice on patent infringement litigation. He was an extremely intelligent, dedicated and hard-working litigator who was adept at developing creative solutions to complex legal issues. Michael was thoroughly devoted to the firm’s pro bono practice, always representing his clients with uncommon vigor, enthusiasm and sensitivity.

In his quiet way, Michael earned the respect, admiration and affection of those with whom he worked and the clients he represented. This was particularly true of his pro bono clients, for whom he felt a special sense of responsibility and compassion. He will always be remembered for his gentle spirit, his genuine acts of kindness extended to others, and his goodness of person.

The Crowell & Moring community was deeply saddened by Michael’s passing and they will miss him dearly.
Gilbert LLP is privileged to join its Washington, DC colleagues in supporting the Legal Aid Society’s important mission of providing legal access to justice in our nation’s capital.

We salute the efforts of all Legal Aid employees and volunteers who tirelessly serve our community.

Please plan to join Legal Aid again for the Servant of Justice Awards Dinner on April 28, 2011 at the JW Marriott Hotel.

Tonight’s Servant of Justice Awards Dinner has been made possible by the generosity of Washington, D.C.’s legal and business communities. Legal Aid is extremely grateful for their support. In addition, Legal Aid would like to thank those who contributed significant time, energy and services in-kind to make this evening such a success:
